

One-to-one classes allow students to improve both their speaking skills and listening comprehension. These classes also guarantee optimal use of time, since the student is working with their instructor one on one and making use of every minute.

In addition, one-to-one classes are more effective than any other method for active language practice, eliminating the embarrassment and inhibition that may come from group learning environments and improving language fluency as the student practices listening and speaking.

HOW DO THEY WORK?

Cultural Awareness

Starting point

- Can you think of some examples where cultural awareness is important in your work?
- To what extent do you think company culture is influenced by the country the company is based in?

Communication

You're going to do role plays with your teacher. Use the key expressions in the box below. You've already seen these expressions in the Communication section of this unit online.

- You're in favour of working on Saturday mornings in order to meet a tight deadline. Your colleague (your teacher) is against this. Try to persuade them that this is a good idea.
- You want to implement an open office plan, but your manager (your teacher) is opposed to it. Try to persuade them that it's a good idea and explain its benefits.
